

AWI NEWS

Jun 09

Closing speech by Steven Sample, President of University of Southern California

"But here's the important thing to note. When those collaborative partnerships begin to take off, they are much more productive and effective than a single researcher or a single institution working alone... A great example of such transformative partnerships is the APRU World Institute (AWI), which was formed in 2006." - Steven Sample, President of University of Southern California.

Click here to download a PDF version of the speech